"If you are going to do a whole house installation, I would recommend you to purchase this solar kit. This solar kit can handle your whole house application. You will need a qualified electrician to do all of this work. This unit that I have is a quick backup unit. You can purchase the quick disconnect unit ahead of time and wire it yourself, but it is extra work."

I was worried having never installed anything like this but it came together easily and works perfectly. I highly recommend this for a beginner worried about having everything they need for a system.
