Cleanserve integrated energy solutions

Cleanserve Integrated Energy Solutions Limited, one of the nation's fastest growing aviation fuel supply firms, has announced the appointment of Chris Ndulue as new chief executive officer and Vincent Ndubueze, a professor as the new board chairman.

Confirming this in Lagos, David Aloh, Cleanserve head, legal services and administration said that this move is reflective of the changes in the stature and personality of Cleanserve as a "top flight" aviation support services brand.

Chris Ndulue, former managing director of Arik Air, who is expected to bring his wealth of experience and versatility to bear on the company's growth, is a consummate finance and aviation professional, with almost 30 years of experience in general management, accounting and financial management across various industries.

On his part, Vincent Ndubueze is a professor of geology, petroleum explorationist, federal government of Nigeria accredited environmental consultant, hydrogeologist, educationist and administrator.

Coming on the heels of the company's 10th year anniversary, industry watchers say this development is strategic. With a pan-Nigeria bowser capacity of up to 470,000 liters and storage capacity close to 5 million liters, Cleanserve has metamorphosed into a major player in the aviation oil marketing space with facilities spread across the following major locations.

These locations are the Murtala Mohammed International Airport, Ikeja, Port Harcourt International Airport, Omagwa, Port Harcourt, Nnamdi Azikwe International Airport, Abuja and Mallam Aminu Kano International Airport, Kano.

Exploring extending services to other African airports in the future, Cleanserve parades a team of thoroughbred and passionate professionals, while leveraging on big data from market intelligence and historical records in its decision making, strategy formulation, product development, relationship, and employee management, to deliver value-added services to its clients.

Business Day, established in 2001, is a daily business newspaper based in Lagos. It is the only Nigerian newspaper with a bureau in Accra, Ghana. It has both daily and Sunday titles. It circulates in Nigeria and Ghana

In 2013, as part of his growth and development, he was seconded to Abuja to join the team to start aviation depot. This exposed him to aviation depot project engineering. Ayobola is a graduate of Physics Sciences from Lagos State University and MBA in view from University of Nicosia Cyprus.
