

Denmark vs tun

Tunisian manager Jalel Kadri will be proud of his side for putting in such a performance. Denmark was the favourite to win, coming into the tie but an all-round performance from Tunisia ensured a well-deserved draw. Denmark has a lot to think about after the kind of performance it has displayed and is in a tricky situation going into the tournament. It next plays reigning champion France on November 26 at the Stadium 974. Tunisia meanwhile takes on Australia on the same day at the Al Janoub stadium.

A corner yet again for Denmark and it is the stand-in captain Eriksen yet again. Nothing comes off it this time too.. Wait a minute!! Referee takes a look at the monitor for a possible penalty. The ball hits Yassine Meriah's thighs and is deflected to his hands. No penalty is awarded as it was unintentional, play continues

Abdi makes a run on the left flank, tries a cross but it is deflected by Lindstrom. Tunisian players surround the referee, demanding a penalty for a handball but are denied. It is revealed from the replay that Lindstrom did have a hand but it was unintentional

Tunisia has lost 60% of its World Cup games (nine out of 15), the third-highest percentage by a team to have played at least 15 games in the competition, behind only Saudi Arabia (69% - 11 of 16) and Australia (63%-10 of 16).

Damsgaard comes in with a curling long ball from the center to the right, changing the line of play and finds Olsen. Olsen and Damsgaard play one on ones and eventually move into the box but the ball is cleared out of danger
