The recent inauguration of Bank Square, the new headquarters of the Bank of Ghana (BoG), constructed by Goldkey Properties Limited, a wholly Ghanaian real estate and construction company, has highlighted the capabilities of local businesses in the country, Managing Director of GCB Bank Plc and President of Ghana Association of Banks, Kofi Adomakoh has indicated,

"This remarkable achievement underscores the capabilities of our local enterprises, and we should take pride in it," said during the inauguration. It is important that we continue to trust in our abilities and actively engage the services of our local business to lead in the infrastructural development of our country", Mr Adomakoh elaborated at the inauguration held in Accra.

"The company that put this magnificent edifice together, Goldkey Properties, is a Ghana-ian-owned company. This is an amazing job. So, I would say that Ghana is moving forward, and I'm very proud of what I have seen today," Eric Okyere Darko, who is a lawyer in New York and a board member of Ghana Infrastructure Investment Fund (GIFF), said.

"I am so impressed that Ghana has moved from developing infra-structure to developed infrastruc-ture. I practice law in New York. I work very close to the Federal Reserve Bank in New York. This is the type of structure they have, and Ghana has come of age. I actually applaud the Governor, the management, and the President of the Republic for taking the bold step to bring Ghana to this standard," he added.

Inaugurating the magnificent Bank Square on Wednesday, President Nana Addo Dankwa Akufo-Addo commended the visionaries, architects, engineers and contractors who brought the iconic Bank Square to life.

"This iconic structure, built by a Ghanaian entity, Kwaku Bedia-ko's Goldkey Properties Limited, is proof of their creativity, expertise and perseverance, it stands as a landmark of pride for the people of Ghana in the beacon of our financial future.

"As we celebrate this achieve-ment, let us also reflect on our shared responsibility to continue building an economy that is inclu-sive and prosperous. Let the Bank Square remind us of the impor-tance of governance, visionary leadership and an unwavering commitment to the well-being of all Ghanaians," he said.

Goldkey Properties, the EPC contractor and a subsidiary of the CH Group, executed this impres-sive project that comprises seven primary structures, each designed to blend functionality, aesthetics, and sustainability.

Designed to host 2,500 staff members, the complex includes ample multi-level parking and is set in a lushly landscaped envi-ronment. The design supports both operational efficiency and environmental consciousness, blending functionality with beauty.
