The church of pentecost

“In the coming years, The Church of Pentecost will strive to become a Church whose members go to possess or take their nations by influencing every worldview, thought and behavior with Kingdom principles, values and lifestyles, thereby, turning many people to Christ.” – Apostle Eric Nyamekye (Chairman, The Church of Pentecost)

The International Missions Office at the General Headquarters, La, Accra was established in 1991 to coordinate The Church of Pentecost's (CoP) continuous growth on the international front. Hitherto, Missions work in The CoP had begun more than 40 years before the office was established. As of the end of 2021, The CoP by God's grace was operational in 136 nations of the world including Ghana (Find full list in Appendix).

The Office is headed by the International Missions Director (IMD) who is an Apostle elected by the General Council of the Church, and an Executive Council member of The CoP. The IMD is supported by other staff who together form the working team for the Missions Office.

The International Missions Director coordinates all missionary activities in the Missions field by implementing decisions of the Missions Board, sending out missionaries, paying missionaries' salaries, giving out grants for the building of Church projects, receiving and analyzing reports from the nations, training programs for Missionaries and orientation for newly called Missionaries, visiting the nations, among others.

The General Council is made up of all Apostles, Prophets, Evangelists and ordained Pastors of the Church, Area Executive Committee members, National Heads, National Deacons, National Secretaries, Trustees, Chairmen of Boards and Committees, and Ministry Directors, National Executive Committee Members of Ministries/National PENSA Coordinating Committee, Area Women's Ministry Leaders in Ghana. Specialists and Retired Ministers of The Church of Pentecost.

The General Council is the highest policy making body of The Church of Pentecost and the final appellate body in all disciplinary matters affecting members of the General Council for which purpose the Council may appoint an appellate Committee.

Where necessary, it has the duty of impeaching members the General Council accused of misconduct, should the Executive Council fail to do so. It again approves reports submitted by the various organs of the Church.
